

“All our customers are on the ‘front lines.’ But some are really putting their lives in our hands.”

Michael Katzer
Sales Manager
AR Modular RF

The fact that our RF amplifiers and modules are tough, rugged, powerful and dependable is important to all our customers. To our military customers – and the troops that are really on the front lines – it’s a matter of life and death.

That’s why the US military uses our field-tested booster amplifiers. We’re right there with the troops in Iraq and Afghanistan. When they’re kicking in doors and jumping through windows, they’re using AR amplifiers to stay in contact. And to help them stay alive.

We’re all very proud to play a part in supporting the troops. We’re proud that AR is the amplifier of choice when failure is not an option.

Maybe your life doesn’t actually depend upon your amplifier doing what it’s supposed to do. But still, I can’t imagine why anyone would use any other amplifiers for any important applications. After all, when is failure an option?
